19th Century Correspondence
Archives New Zealand Info Sheet No.8 (July 2012)
Significant records lost over time

Census: Individual schedules from the first general census of the population in 1851 until 1961 have been systematically destroyed.

Wellington Provincial Government: archives prior to 1856 were lost to fire

Auckland Provincial Government: archives prior to 1872 were lost to fire

Marlborough Provincial Government: archives prior to 1876 were lost to fire

Post Office: most records have been lost to fires in 1887 and 1961

Otago Provincial Government: most immigration records were destroyed in the 1890s

Maori Affairs Department: inwards letters 1840-1891 were lost in the 1907 fire

Other nineteenth century records including registers and outward letters survive

Agriculture Department: registered files to 1920 were lost in the 1952 fire

Labour Department: yearly numbered files to 1912 were lost in the 1952 fire and also parts of registered files to 1952.

Lands and Survey Department: yearly numbered files to 1891 were lost in the 1952 fire

Education Department: most of the head office Education Department registered files prior to the 1930s were pulped about 1942.

Health Department: most registered files prior to the 1920s were destroyed

Police Department: almost all head office files after 1904 were destroyed

Pensions Department (1898-1938): these records have almost completely disappeared in unknown circumstances.

State Advances Corporation (established 1896): few records prior to 1930 survive

Non-Deliberate Destruction Events

1862 Wreck of the ‘White Swan’ while transferring government records from Auckland to Wellington. The papers were mostly those that pertained to the first session of Parliament to be held in Wellington – and the loss was described as ‘small’.

1887 Post Office fire
1907 Fire in Parliament House
1952 Hope Gibbons Fire
1961 Post Office fire in Aotea Quay – destroyed the surviving files from the 1887 fire
