Henry was employed as a clerk in Birmingham before joining his brother Robert Crocker at Sorell in Tasmania about 1842. He stayed for two years then arrived in Victoria around 1846. He was appointed an overseer in 1848 on Woodburn Station near Meredith. On 11 Oct 1857 the family sailed to Wellington, New Zealand aboard the 'Drover'. In 1864, after returning to Australia from New Zealand, the family settled in the Wimmera after Henry took up a position for Mr Wilson on the Vectis Station. He worked there for ten years until taking up land at Laherum. Henry and Elizabeth later moved to Horsham. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on 6 April 1902.
