The Morning Chronicle 11 Dec 1851 Australia

The discovery of gold in Australia has again called attention to the position of those colonies as regards the supply of labour, and the necessity of taking more active measures to meet the demand which has now been added to the previous wants of the colonists. In furtherance of this object, Mr Joseph Robert Morrison, has published, through Effingham Wilson, a pamphlet, in which the author, after pointing out the disadvantages under which these colonies are labouring for want of a better system of emigration than is present organized either by Government or by private enterprise, suggests the propriety of promoting family emigration, on a large scale, as the only means of meeting the present and future wants of these colonies. The subject is one of immense importance to the commercial world, and especially so to those merchants and shipowners connected with the Australian trade, to whom any suggestion for increasing the intercourse between the mother country and the colonies must be of personal interest, and deserving of consideration.

The Morning Chronicle 8 Feb 1856 Money Market and City News

We understand that Mr Joseph Robert Morrison of Theobalds, Herts, late president partner of the old and well-known firm of Messrs James Morrison and Co., Australian merchants, of Philpot-lane, is likely to come forward as a candidate for one of the vacancies in the direction of the Eastern Counties Railway. We believe he has retired from business, and being still of active business habits, we are disposed to the opinion that he is one who is peculiarly eligible for a seat in the direction. As a merchant, he must be well versed in all arithmetical calculations, and he is otherwise well fitted to watch over the interests of the proprietors.

Daily News (London) 19 Feb 1856 The Eastern Counties Railway

Mr Joseph Robert Morrison, late chief partner in the well-known firm of Messrs Jas. Morrison and Co., merchants, of Philpot-lane, has come forward as a candidate for the vacant seat at the board of the Eastern Counties Railway Company. In his address, dated the 15th inst., he announces himself as a decided advocate for railway reform. He observes: In seeking this appointment at your hands I disclaim all connexion with either of the present contending parties or with the proceedings of their respective committees. I enter upon this contest unbiased by any pledge except that of exerting myself to the utmost of my ability in promoting the interests and prosperity of the company. I am a decided advocate for railway reform, and while I regard the system of issuing proxies by candidates, which in the case of your company would incur an expense of £750, as one needing reform, I respectfully decline to adopt that course, but leave it to the good sense of the proprietary to determine the disinterestedness of those who seek by such means to obtain your votes in the appointment of directors, whose tenure of office is at the best uncertain, and whose remuneration is merely nominal. I tender to you my best services, founded on the experience of several years as the head of a mercantile firm, from which I have recently retired.

Nicholson, Esq., of the firm of Nicholson and Ridings.

This Company is established to work the Dun Mountain Copper Mine, in the province of Nelson, New Zealand, and within 10 miles of that port. These mines were discovered in the early part of the year 1852, by a mineral surveyor of considerable experience, who reported the discovery to the New Zealand Government, upon which steps were taken by the authorities, as well as by the inhabitants of Nelson, to have careful surveys made of the district, with a view to prove the existence of the mineral products thus brought to their notice. The result of the explorations made by the Government geologist, and confirmed by other mineral surveyors, was satisfactory. Sir George Grey, the then Governor, directed the publication of the same in the Government "Gazette" of 29th June, 1852; and a company was consequently formed at Nelson, on the 8th of October in the same year, under the title of the "Cook's Strait Mining Company." The resources of the colony being very limited, the promoters determined to despatch an agent to England to raise the amount necessary for the successful opening of the mines. This gentleman reached England in March, 1854, the precise period of the declaration of war with Russia, and therefore at a most inopportune moment for promoting the views of the Nelson colonists. Nevertheless, induced by the very favourable specimens which were brought over, by the high character of the parties he represented in the colony, as well as the documents transmitted by them, the gentlemen whose names appear upon the direction, with others, purchased the freehold, with mineral rights, of a portion of the Dun Mountain and adjacent land, comprising about 1,687 acres. To ascertain further the value of the mines, a staff of 26 men, with ample materials for prosecuting the works, were despatched; and, on their arrival in New Zealand, their attention was directed to the existence of the lodes in an elevated part of the mountain, from which eight tons of ore were extracted and sent over to this country, and found to contain a percentage of 17½ of fine copper. In order further to test the value of the lodes, they were searched for, and again struck in a gully 1,800 feet below the previous workings, by an adit of six feet. Conclusive evidence having been thus obtained of the mine holding good in depth, two tons of ore were extracted and forwarded, and the result of this parcel, after having been fairly dressed for market at Swansea, yielded 23 and 7 eighths per cent. of fine copper, the refuse dust producing from 6¾ to 13 and 5 eighths per cent, per ton of ore, which consists of a grey sulphuret with rich red and black oxide and native copper, also strong yellow sulphuret, the details of which may be seen in the annexed letter from Messrs Henry Bath and Son, of Swansea. Of the total number of 75,000 shares, 6,000 fully paid up shares are taken by the original promoters of the Cook's Strait Mining Company in New Zealand; and by agreement with that Company 5,000 additional shares are to be allotted and paid for in New Zealand: and the promoters in England take 20,000 fully paid up shares in satisfaction of the cost of the preliminary investigation, the transfer of the rights of the Cook's Strait Mining Company at Nelson, the purchase of the freehold of the property, in meeting the heavy expenses incurred by despatching men and materials from this country, and their maintenance and wages while occupied in making the road between Nelson and the Mine, nine miles of which were completed by the last advices. There consequently remain 44,000 shares for distribution, for which application may be made in the annexed form to the Broker, 1, Shorter's-court, Throgmorton-street; or to the Secretary, at the Company's offices, 6, Great Winchester-street. Previously to any application for shares 5s per share must be paid as a deposit to the Company's bankers. A receipt will be given by the bankers for the 5s per share, which must be forwarded with the application. If no shares are allotted, the receipt and the money will be returned without delay or deduction. If shares are allotted, and the money shall exceed the whole deposit of 5s per share on the shares allotted, the surplus will be returned or applied towards the 15s to be paid on allotment and delivery of shares. If it shall fall short, the deficiency must be paid within 14 days after allotment, or the whole will be forfeited. Certificates of shares, under the Joint-Stock Company's Act, 1856, will be delivered to the applicant when the remaining 15s per share shall be paid up.

Letter from Messrs Henry Bath and Son. Mining-office, Swansea, March 10, 1856. Dear Sir, In reply to your favour of the 6th instant, we beg to make the following remarks on the 40 bags of copper ore received from your Mine on the Dun Mountain, New Zealand:- The contents of these bags evidently consisted of the whole of the working of the lode, without any attempt at dressing. We dressed them by picking as well as we were able, and obtained about one-third which yielded 23 and 7 eighths per cent fine copper of the total quantity we set aside, the earthly portions and refuse weighing about 5 cwt; but even this contained about 6 per cent of copper; the whole of the 40 bags contained on an average 16 per cent. There were several portions of rich oxyde, and even pieces of metallic copper, but on this we lay no great stress; the most encouraging feature in the matter is the fact that the ore consisted principally of grey sulphuret, and that the copper is well diffused through the mass, instead of being in rich lumps. It is further satisfactory that the ore has been found in the same locality, but at some distance from your original workings in the Dun Mountain, an evidence that the copper exists in quantities in that mountain, and that this last lot, worked lower down the mountain, consists in a much larger proportion of sulphuret than the former lot. On the whole, we should say that the indications are increasingly favourable to your prospects, and, as on a former occasion, we expressed an opinion that there was quite sufficient inducement to make a trial, all that has occurred since has only confirmed us in the correctness of that opinion, and of the advisability of going further than you have yet done in working the mine. We remain, yours truly, Henry Bath and Son. Frederick Saunders, Esq., London.

Extracts from the Manager's Reports, dated Nelson, Aug 18, 1856. Twelve months experience has enabled me to report as under, which I hope will be found satisfactory; for its fidelity I can vouch:- Extent of your Property, its Contents, and Capabilities – The entire estate contains 1,687 acres of surface land, all freehold mineral lodes, and comprises the whole of Blocks 1,3,4,5 and a portion of Block 2. Limestone in vast abundance passes across Block 2. It shows itself in the Mitai River, as delineated on the large plan, and all across the high ridge between the Mitai and the Wrey. Blocks 3,4 and 5 are almost destitute of timber. The soil arid in the extreme, which (added to its general altitude – say 2,500 feet) renders cultivation hopeless. Blocks 2 and 6 descend to a much lower level. Following the Mitai from the mine first opened to the junction of the Windtrap Gully stream with the Mitai is a sudden fall of 1,800 feet in that short distance. From that junction to the junction of the Wrey with the Mitai the fall is considerable, but less precipitous. Number of Lodes – The number of lodes within the property no one knows correctly, but I am warranted in saying full 20 may be depended upon, and, in all probability, very many more – many containing very rich ore in great abundance. I have opened four lodes; out of each I have obtained ore of a most splendid description. These I distinguish as the Old Lode, Duppa's Lode, Floyd's Lode, and the Windtrap Gully Lode; out of all of which I forwarded samples, and have obtained pure native copper from all, except Duppa's. Facility of Working – The explorations I have made have resulted in establishing beyond dispute the existence of a line of country singularly good for a one-way traffic, the road always descending. I have also established conclusive evidence of the lodes holding good in depth by opening the Windtrap Gully Lode at a depth of at least 200 fathoms (1,200 feet) below the old mine, and at a further depth of at least 100 fathoms (600 feet) by level also. These lodes will lay more dry ground than can be exhausted by a very large yield in 300 years. The Windtrap Gully Lode turns out magnificent ore at a depth of 300 fathoms, facing nearly two miles in the trend of the lodes, the whole of which will be drained by the main level, without engines or machinery of any sort. By commencing the work in the Windtrap Gully, there will be a saving of a mile and a half as regards distance, and the ascent and descent of 1,800 feet. Means of Conveyance to Port – This most essential requisite, I am happy to say, exists in an unusually favourable degree. The waggons may come out of the mine laden, and proceed to the port without shifting the load, working the first mile and a half by means of a self-acting inclined plane, from the mouth of the level to about the junction of the Wrey with the Mitai, and for the last 10 miles averaging 1 in 80, by horse power. Ore sent herewith – We now sent two tons of ore from the Windtrap Gully Lode. It is the entire produce of two days' working by two men, in entirely unopened country. I send it undressed. It will permit competent parties to form a better idea of the lode; but it must be dressed properly, as for market, before it is assayed. I have no fear of the result being anything but A1. I also send a box with some chosen specimens, with remarks enclosed; and I can conclude by saying to the Subscribers, 'You are now in possession of one of the richest mining properties in the world. All that is wanted to render it profitable is a reasonable plan of operations established, steadily pursued, and carried out.' ...
