The Banker's Magazine Volume 27 (1867) p323 Stamford, Spalding, and Boston Banking Company
It is with deep regret that the directors record the death of their late managing directori, Mr Orlando Edmonds; his services commenced with the opening of the bank, in 1832, and were maintained with unabated vigour and success until within the last few years, when, in consideration of his declining health, the directors transferred his duties to Mr Savill, as managing director, and to his son, Mr O. Edmonds, as general manager, in whose hands the management will be continued with the entire confidence of the board. The vacancies in the board of directors, occassioned by the death of the late Mr Edmonds, of Stamford, and of the late Mr Walker, of Spilsby, have been filled up by the appointment of Mr Dabbs, of Stamford, and of Mr R. W. Staniland, of Boston, such appointments being subject to confirmation by the shareholders at the present meeting. The directors retiring on this occasion are Mr Hobson, Mr Staniland, Mr Edmonds, and Mr Morris, who offer themselves for re-election. …
