The Life and Correspondence of James Iredell by Griffith John McRee[1858] p6
Mr Francis Iredell, of Bristol, being stricken with paralysis, and unable to supervise his business, was soon reduced to poverty… Many stepped forward to their aid, with tender concern, to offer counsel and shelter. They were allied by blood to Sir George Macartney, the Earl of Wigton, the Fergusons and McCullohs, and by marriage to Gov. Lyttelton – all people of rank and consideration.
